PERSONAL TRAINING

It's a myth that personal training is for the elite athlete or the super rich - it is more affordable than you think. Everybody has different goals which commonly fall under one or more of the following categories: health, performance and appearance. Neil offers A FREE CONSULTATION.

Neil Grove is a highly motivated and energetic personal trainer, Vibration Training Expert and Sports Therapist whose interest in the fitness industry originated in South Africa where he played rugby at a semi-professional level. Since moving to the UK he has obtained his Dip FTST and Adv PT certification. He has worked with a wide variety of clients ranging from the total beginner to the elite athlete.

VIBRATION TRAINING

Far better results are achieved than with traditional training methods in a lot less time without overloading the body. It is a key tool for all age groups and all fitness levels. It enhances flexibility while strengthening the core. Three 12 minute workouts burn more fat and create more muscle than 3½ hours of conventional training.

Neil can combine this method of training with cardio, resistance training and bag work to create a bespoke training programme for each individual client.

Neil also offers group sessions and circuit classes.
